'VARSITY AFIELD

The Team Practicing for the Thanksgiving Game.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
UNIVERSITY OF VIRGINIA, November
15.-The 'Varsity foot-ball eleven began practice to-day for the final game of the season is.—The 'Varsity foot-ball eleven began practice to-day for the final game of the season—that with North Carolina in Richmond on Thanksgiving Day, for the championship of the South. It was the first line-up since the contest with the Naval Cadets on Saturday last. Yesterday the men were all rather sore and were excused from the usual routine. In fact, several of the regulars were not in their place was taken to-day by a good substitute, in the same with the Middles. A valuable hark field man has a sprained ankle, but his place was taken to-lay by a good substitute, who can be counted upon to put up a stiff game on Thursday next. While North Carolina has a game scheduled for to-morrow, Virginia has no contest between now and 7 banksgiving Day, and should be in the pink of condition for next Thursday is the day set for the settlement. The contest will undoubtedly be the stiffest ever played on the southern gridfrom. Carolina's star player, Carpenter, is the only Virginia player, who ever scored a point against the University team, and Virginia will have to keep her eyes open to preven his scoring a touchlown or kicking a goal from field next Thursday.

He is undoubtedly the best all-around foot-ball player in the South.

HARVARD GLOOMY, BUT WILL PUT UP GAME FIGHT

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

CAMBRIDGE MASS., November 15.—Gloom deep and unfathomable has settled upon Harard. Yesterday, in addition to the fact that the scrub scored, two touchdowns to one on the Varsity after making it look like a high school team for a space of fifteen minutes, come the announcement of a crippled less, which, unless miracles of recovery occur in the next few days, practically means "good-by" to all Harvard's aspirations and hopes. It looks now exceedingly doubtful if either Meler or Brill, Harvard's regular tackles, with eable to start against Yale at New Hayen Saturday. It is still less probable that, if they start, they will last out the first half, injury is a torn shoulder the start against processes.

Meler's right arm has been hurt so often in the same place that a badly brulsed nerve causes him intense pan whenever the spot is jarred against. It will take a strong combination to fit Meler for the game.

Davy, a promising tackle, broke his collar-bene in Saturday's game. Derby, who made his "H" in the Yale game last year, is another Harvard tackle on the cripple list. He will prehably be able to play Saturday, but he will be in far from top-notch forms. The only ray of brightness is the announcement that Pierce, the big scrub tackle, who has been showing up so brilliantly against the "Varalty recently, has been declared cligible by the college authorities. Pierce, who will probably play against Yale in case Meler does not get around in shape, is a giant, standing six feet two inches in claids to pass his examinations has June admitting him to the sophomore class.

Hurry, the capitain, says, the men would play the game of their lives against Yale on Saturday. He also said that all the men were "fit," which contradicts the reports from Schlier's Field, although not for the first time this year.

Mr. Roosevelt, However, Will on Two Trips Discuss Attitude Toward South.

SAYS HE IS MISUNDERSTOOD

Feels Keenly Charges of Press That He Favors Social Equality of the Races.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 15.-While the President, on the occasion of his two trips to the South, one before and the other after his inauguration, will discuss his attitude towards that section, his speeches will not disclose any radical or any material change of policy.

As has been indicated more than once in these dispatches, Mr. Roosevelt feels that the Southern people have entirely misunderstood his attitude towards them, and that section of the Union. He thinks the Southern press has been unduly harsh in its criticisms of administration policies, especially with reference to the views which he holds concerning the treatment of the negro. Mr. Roosevelt thinks it must be apparent to those who have followed his course, who have heard his speeches and read his books, that he has not been unfriendly to the white people of the South. He thinks that the estimate which he placed upon the Confederate army and upon the character of General Lee as a military leader and as a man, as set forth in the life of Benton, should be sufficient denial of all charges of lack of appreciative of Southern character.

The Negro Question. the Southern press has been unduly harsh

The Negro Question.

Regarding the negro, Mr. Roosevelt helds to the opinions of Abraham Lincoln. He believes that as there is no discrimination in business because of religion, there should be none in politics because of race or color. The President believes that test of qualification or finess believes that test of qualification or fitness for voting and holding office should apply to black and white alike. He thinks that that which disqualifies a negro from the exercise of the election franchise should disqualify the white man also.

The President feets especially keenly the charge made by a portion of the press that he favors social equality and miscegenation. The President has said that he who would advocate either of these would be an enemy to both races. His views on the negro question, the President has said, coincides fully with those of Judge Jones, former Governor of Alabama, a Confederate soldier, and a Democrat.

His friendliness to the South, Mr.

Democrat. His friendliness to the South, Mr. His friendliness to the South, Mr. Roosevelt thinks, is clearly indicated by the character of the men whom he has appointed to office in the various Southern States. He has professed in every instance an earnest desire to appoint the best Republicans available for the position, A further evidence of his kindly feelings towards the South, he feels, is his appointment of General Luke Wright, of Tennessee, to the office of Governor-General of the Philippines, a post which the administration regards as equal in dignity and importance to that of a cabinet officer.

Date Not Fixed.

Date Not Fixed.

President Roosevelt has not definitely fixed upon the date of his visit to his mother's old home in Georgia, but he contemplates making the trip prior to tag the old march. Shortly after his inauguration, he will go to San Antonio, Texto attend a rennion of the regiment of Rough Riders, unless he should call an extra seasion of Congress to convene immediately after the expiration of the coming session on the 4th of March. An extra seasion for the purpose of revision of tariff schedules is now looked upon as almost a certainty.

Union Thanksgiving Services. The Presbyterian churches of Richmond will unite in a union service at the Second Presbyterian Church on Thanksgiving Day at 11 o'clock A. M. The sermon will be preached by Rev. F. T. McFaden, D. D., of the First Presbyterian Church.
